Highlights

Vanish

The owner of the van sporting a swastika banner in its windshield has been told to get the vehicle in motion and off of county property.

Seat in question

The right of Maurice Bradley to hold his seat as Reeve of Cardiff Township is being challenged by his election-time foe, Bill Davis. Please see page 15.

No plow

Minden Council's decision to not maintain the lower portion of Bob Lake Road has area residents up in arms.

Compost

Maintaining a compost heap has been made simple with the help of a new device, created by a local cottager.

More delays

The rezoning for Ray Moore's condominium project has met with another delay. Please see page 15.

Fair results

Competition was lively in the many categories of the Haliburton County Fair as hundreds walked away with red, blue or white ribbons for their efforts. Fair results begin on page 22.

Flames engulf Norland business

A massive blaze last week destroyed the Norland business and residence of Scotty Calder.

Firefighters from four different municipalities were called to Calder's Antiques, just north of Norland on Highway 35, on Wednesday afternoon when fire engulfed the store and eight storage sheds. Only two metal-clad sheds were left standing.

The fire was discovered at about 1:30 p.m. by Ron Paris, an employee and an attempt was made to fight the flames with buckets of water but within half-an-hour the blaze had spread throughout the store.

"I've never seen anything spread so fast," said Calder's daughter Penny, who was at the store at the time the fire started. Smoke from the scene was visible south of Coboconk.

The staff, assisted by Tom Ecclestone who was shopping in the store, and several bystanders, removed as much furniture as they could before the flames forced them to give

Kinmount beach is unsafe for swimming

For the first time ever, the bacteria count in the Burnt River in Kinmount reached levels high enough to cause the Victoria County Health Unit to post a warning for swimmers.

The sign, warning swimmers of polluted water, went up at the beach behind the Kinmount Post Office prior to the August 20 weekend. According to Doug Shelley from the Health Unit, this is the first time they have bacterial counts in that area to warrant "placarding" the beach. Water samples taken from the river showed fecal bacteria counts of about 200 parts per 100 ml of water. The Health Unit posts any swimming areas where bacteria counts exceed 100 parts per 100 ml of water.

To test an area's suitability for swimming, the Health Unit takes at least five samples. In Kinmount they sampled the water at the

Tourism still driving force

There were few surprises in store for those who turned out to the public meeting on the first phase of the Haliburton County Economic Development study.

Tourism and recreation have been, and will continue to be, the driving force behind the county's economy, the study indicates. The potential for industrial development is slim, forestry is on the decline, mining has limited potential and transportation is "going down the road."

Ironically, the consultants barely touched on the topic that triggered this study—the concept of establishing a permanent Sir Sandford Fleming College campus for fine arts in Haliburton.

Andy Muller, a partner in Keir and Muller Associates Inc, said it used to be believed that a fine arts campus here would be the "panacea to the fortunes of the county's economy. You get a permanent campus and your worries are over." That's no longer the case, he said.

This hope for a "quick-fix" solution to local economic troubles is hardly

Roads department says van must be moved

The owner of a van parked on the road allowance of County Road 1 has agreed to have it moved by the end of the month.

The van, which recently had a red and black swastika flag posted in its windshield, has been parked just off the county road near Lochlin all summer. The side door has been removed and a lean-to structure has been attached to its side.

Bill Obee, County Engineer, said the roads department determined last week that the van is, in fact, parked on the road allowance. The owner, Kevin Widdess of Brampton, was contacted by phone last week when he agreed to remove the van. The roads department followed up the phone conversation with a letter, instructing him to move the van.

Widdess owns the adjacent property, which is in Snowdon Township. Another vehicle, a large bus that has been converted into living accommodations, has been parked on another heavily wooded property beside Widdess' property for more than a year.

Widdess could not be reached last week for comment about the flag in the van's windshield. However, his mother said it is probably some kind of a gag. She expressed doubt that it has anything to do with the white supremacy leanings of Minden resident John Beattie.

BEATTIE

Beattie, the former head of the Canadian Nazi Party, staged a racist rally at his home on Bobcaygeon Road on the Canada weekend that involved a cross burning, loud skinhead music and the chanting of racist slogans. Recently he staged another gathering which involved target practice with .22 calibre semi-automatic firearms.

Beattie is suspected to be organizing another rally for the Labour Day weekend, although it is not being publicized like the earlier rally. He has been served an eviction notice, but has until the end of September to vacate the rented property.

Sources say that Beattie has arranged to rent a small house on Orde Street in Minden to live in after he leaves his present address. The owner of the property in question could not be contacted last week to confirm this information.

A red and black swastika banner went up in the windshield of this van, parked near Lochlin, last week. The county roads department has asked that the van be moved off of county property.

McKnight is new CAO

Gary McKnight has been promoted to the position of Chief Administrative Officer for the County of Haliburton.

The promotion, which went into effect immediately, was agreed upon at a county Management and Personnel Committee meeting on August 24.

McKnight has been the county's Clerk/Treasurer for the past three and a half years. For the past six months he has also acted as the interim Administrator at Hyland Crest Senior Citizens Home.

A press release from the committee says the new appointment was made to better communicate and co-ordinate the various departments and activities within the county structure.

Surface run-off is suspect

beach and near the pump-houses. Both showed bacteria levels above the acceptable level. A second set of samples were then taken, with similar results.

At this time of the year it is not unusual for rains to wash surface water into the lakes and rivers, causing the bacteria levels to rise, said Shelly. In lakes such as Scugog Lake where the water flow is limited, "it's a foregone conclusion" that they will be placarded in this season, he said.

However, the Burnt River is a strong flowing river and doesn't fit into that category. That's why the Health Unit will be carrying out further tests to discover the cause of the pollution.

Shelly said the Health Unit is taking samples upstream from the Kin-mount beach in an effort to find out where the high bacteria level drops off. This information could help them pinpoint a cause of the problem.

It is possible that the bacteria level will drop back to normal levels on its own, said Shelly. If this happens, it will indicate that the source of the pollution is surface run-off, generated from the recent rains.

"If it (the level) goes down, then it's just surface run-off," Shelly said. The fact that this if the first time the river has hit these levels would then be attributed to new development along the shoreline of the river. "Every time someone establishes a cottage, trees are cut down and there is more surface water run-off." He said there are some lakes in Haliburton County where the shorelines are so densely developed and the lakes are so sensitive that property owners have to get permission before they are allowed to cut even one tree.

On the other hand, if the bacteria level in the Burnt River continues to stay high, the Health Unit may have to enlist the Ministry of the Environment to come in and help discover what is causing the pollution. "It all depends on what we find and if it's justified," said Shelly.

As long as the signs remain at the Kinmount beach, bathers are advised that the area is not safe for swimming. Shelly said bathers who disregard the signs may get a sore throat or infections to their eyes or ears. Any open cuts could also get infected by the water. And if a bather swallows some of the water they may get diarrhoea.

editorial

It was laughable to see a room full of Highlands residents gloating whenever the condition of our lakes was compared to those in the Muskoka and the Georgian Bay areas during last Thursday's public meeting for the economic development study that is underway in the county.

It was even more amusing to note the dead silence when the consultant noted that the area's "once pristine image is now a little tarnished."

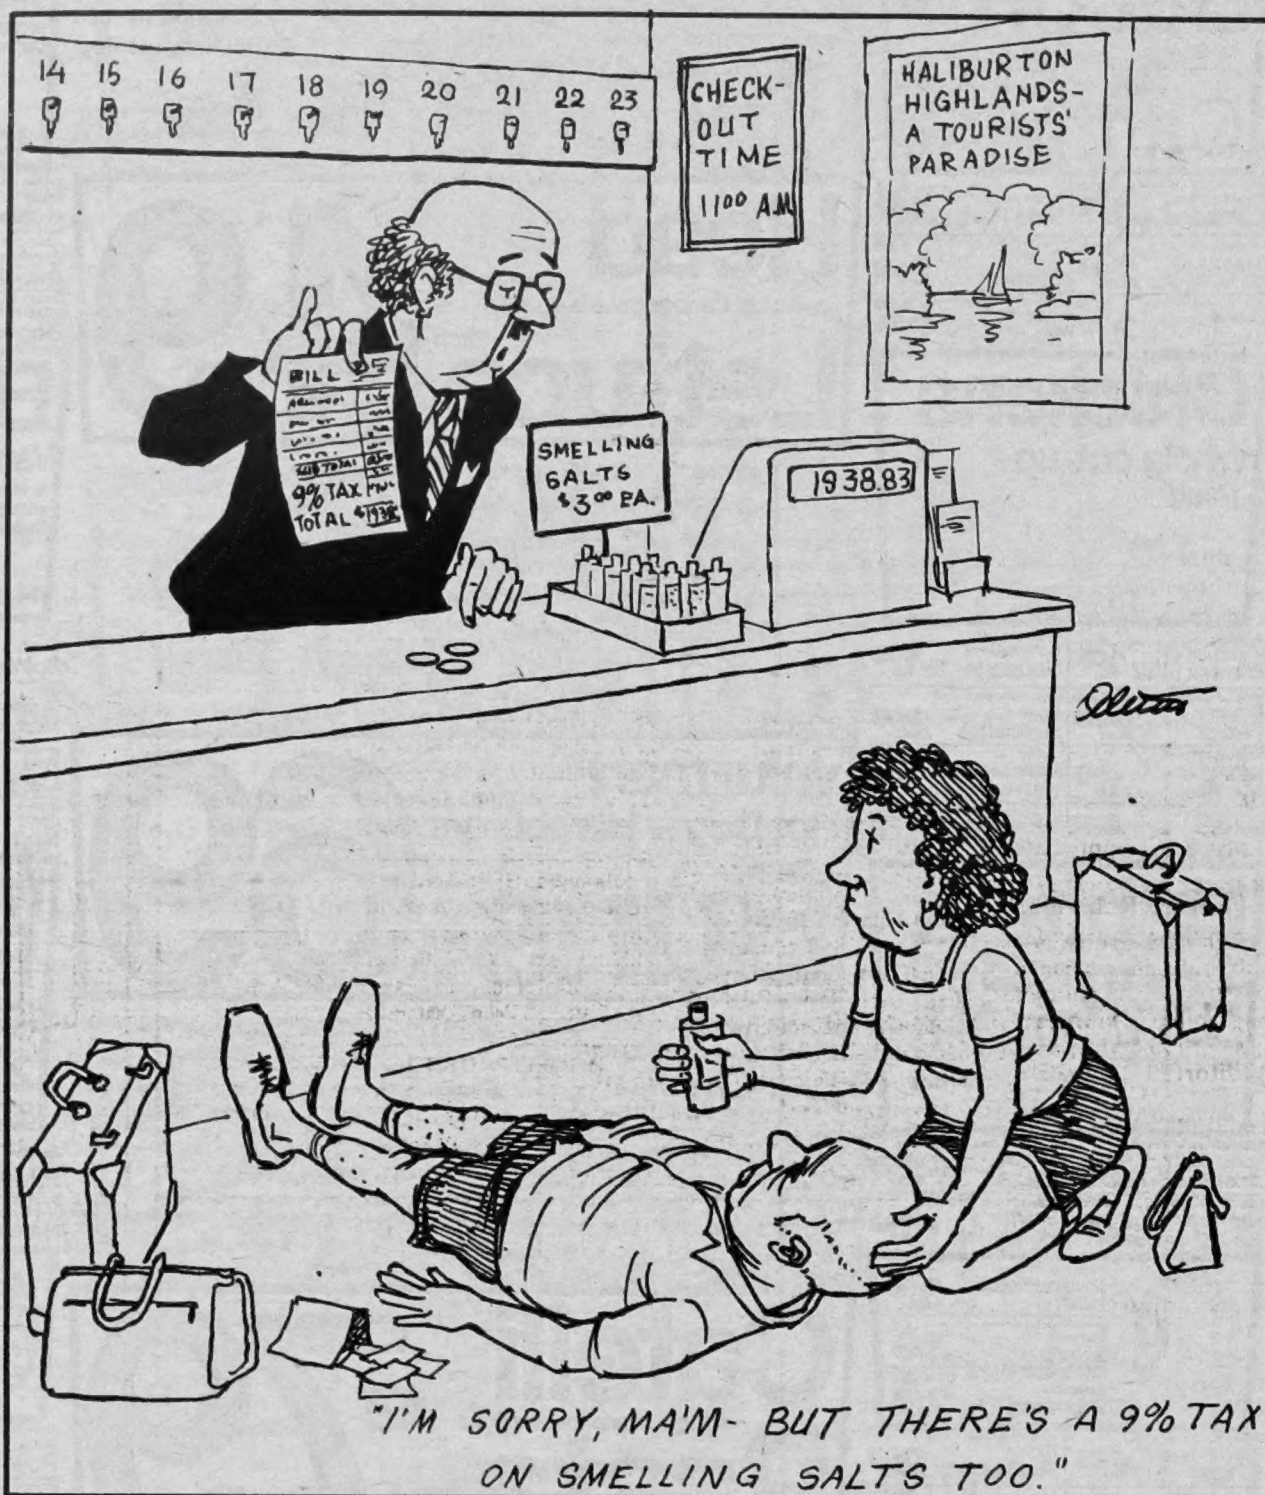

For years, tourists, cottagers and residents have been lulled into a false sense of hope by misleading stories about the rugged, unscathed countryside and its hundreds of 'shimmering' lakes.

To a large degree the countryside is still very primitive, but the only thing left shimmering on the main lakes is the reflection of cottages and homes clustered around the shorelines. The shorelines surrounding all the lakes that are easily accessible are developed to, and beyond, the breaking point. The dense row of buildings with their manufactured beaches, docks and boat-houses is hardly a 'pristine' setting.

In fact, the lakes here are far more densely developed than anything in Muskoka or Georgian Bay. There, it is still possible to go for a boat ride, pull into a secluded bay and pick a quart of blueberries without the worry of being scolded by a cottager or homeowner trying to protect his precious chunk of shoreline.

If our lakes are less polluted than those in Muskoka and Georgian Bay, it's only because we have dumb luck on our side. Being at the head of the water chain, pollution generated outside of the county runs away from here rather than into our lakes. What this also means, though, is that we have no one but ourselves to blame for the condition of our lakes. If they are stressed from overdevelopment, we are the cause of it. We have no right to be smug.

According to the consultants, few aspects of the environment are going to be as important to the future of the Highlands as a tourism and recreation centre as its water resources. If we continue to squander that resource, we stand to lose a big chunk of our present and future economic fortunes.

'Nothing makes me more humble than flying'

Once upon a time a nosy New York Times reporter asked an Amtrak passenger why she insisted on taking trains whenever she travelled any distance. Was it, asked the reporter, because she was afraid of flying?

"No" came the crisp reply. "Crashing."

Well, exactly. And any air traveller who says he or she doesn't feel just the teensiest tingle of terror when he or she steps off the tarmac and into that winged cigar tube is either bluffing or sadly deficient in imagination.

Flying is a miracle! There is no way in Hell that 35 or 82 or 327 people in polyester suits or PF Flyers ought to be zinging along at 36,000 feet sipping Kahlua and riffling the pages of Macleans Magazines!

Nothing make me more humble than flying. Every time I wedge myself in my seat, fumble for my seat-belt and wait for the oxygen mask demonstration, I remind myself that I am defying gravity, tempting fate and thumbing my nose at the gods.

Actually, one of the first things I try to do even before I board is get a glimpse of the pilot and co-pilot. Are they young? Too young? Mature? Decrepit? Do they look like they had a good nights sleep or like two guys who just splashed water on their faces after an all-night brothel-cum-crack house?

Even if I don't get to eyeball the fly guys, I like to speculate on what they're saying as we wait for takeoff clearance. And as I look around the plane it seems to me that other passengers are playing the same game.

How about you? Do you ever wonder what the pilots are thinking about when all the folks in the fuselage are thinking about them?

Well, thanks to the cockpit flight recorders we now know the answer to that question.

You're going to be sorry you asked.

Flight recorders are, of course, the devices that automatically record all conversation in the cockpit before and during commercial flights. The idea is that if an accident occurs and the flight crew is wiped out, investigators will be able to listen to the recorded

Clear from the outset that racism not tolerated

Editor:

I would like, through the medium of your paper, to commend the worthy people of Minden, Ontario, for losing no time in condemning the Canada Day

"hate rally" organized by the former Nazi leader John Beattie, at his home in Minden, for "white kinsmen and skin-heads". The people of Minden at the outset, made it clear they they abhor Nazism and racism.

I commend also the Minden Times and Haliburton Echo for their sensitivity and journalistic integrity in bringing to the attention of their readers the danger of Beattie's ideology.

With communities such as Minden and newspapers such as the Minden Times and the Haliburton Echo, Canada's future is in good hands.

Canadians consider "Canada Day" a day for celebrating, a day for expressing their gratitude for living in a democracy that prides itself on its multiculturalism and religious pluralism, where the rights of all minorities are protected under our Charter of Rights. While we thank God that freedom of speech is a basic right in Canada - racists, bigots and hate-mongers cannot be permitted to spread their poisonous doctrines in the name of freedom of speech. A public forum must not be used to espouse hatred towards any group, for this undermines the democratic principles which we proudly celebrate on Canada Day. We live in the best country in the world and we must be vigilant to keep it that way.

What immediately comes to mind is the stark contrast between the people of Minden and those of another Canadian community, Eckville, Alberta, where a high school teacher, James Keegstra, we permitted for 14 years to instill in his students his personal prejudice and diabolical views of Jews and Judaism. Keegstra taught his students that the Jews were responsible for the French and Russian revolutions, the first and second world wars, that the Jews (who comprise only 1/16th of 1 percent of the world total population) were conspiring to destroy Christianity and to enslave the world, and all other paranoid fantasies and falsehoods that his evil mind could fabricate. What parents would want their children to be taught to hate by being fed vicious lies by their teacher, for so many years?

This mind-boggling situation ended only when one perceptive mother of a student in Keegstra's class, exposed him. After some investigation, Keegstra was fired and eventually prosecuted under Canada's hate law.

World War II, initiated by Adolph Hitler, cost the world 50 million lives. Untold numbers of our sons fought in that war and many made the supreme sacrifice to rid the world of Nazism and Fascism. The anguish and agony of that long and bloody war are still with many of us. It would desecrate the memories of our fallen loved ones to permit the evil ideology of the Beatties, the Keegstras, the Zundels and others of their ilk, to, heaven forbid, gain a foothold in our country.

Camp kids abuse park

Editor:

Maybe no one will agree with this letter but I hope a few will.

My friend and I do not enjoy very good health so we can not take long trips but we like to go up to Rotary Park and just sit and enjoy the quietness and the scenery.

Recently hordes of boys from nearby camps have been coming and taking over with all kinds of noise. I think most of these camps are on water so why should they come over here?

I think it is quite a nerve. The Townships did the change house over and it looked nice. However, some hoodlum with no sense has been throwing mud inside. The Park has been well maintained but some people just don't appreciate anything.

Florence Robinson,
Minden.

Funny letters

Editor:

Having enjoyed Mr. Odum's cartoons in your paper for some time now, we read with amusement the letters to the editor from Diana Fleming and Linda Coneybeare, but then a disconcerting feeling struck us that maybe these people were serious.

Minden.

No offence was intended

Editor:

Being the one who submitted the controversial cartoon that appeared in this paper, I would like to offer an apology.

This was a submitted article, as were the other cartoons submitted by the Fair, and was certainly not intended to offend or discredit any member of the feminine gender.

In this age of doom and gloom, I thought a little bit of harmless fun would be a pleasant change, without criticism.

'Cringed' at cartoon

Editor:

I, too, cringed when I saw the advertisement, August 5 and 14, for the Haliburton County Fair. The cartoon shows a man aiming a dart at a board of balloons which is beside a moronic-looking woman. The man says, "Lady, would you please move a bit to your left," and therefore, would be well out of the way of his shot. The implication is that the woman is the victim in need of rescue by males, a victim who brings on her own victimization through gross stupidity.

Most grown women are not dummies and do not believe that they way women are depicted in the mass media is the way we are as individuals.

Although I don't believe most intelligent people (men or women) will be misled by this cartoon for the HC Fair, I would like to see The Times move in a direction that treats women as valuable, worthwhile people.

Bonnie Jull,
Carnarvon.

Humorous

Editor:

I thought the letter from Linda Coneybeare was far more humorous than the cartoon.

Miss Verna Martin,
Kelowna, B.C.

Arts campus all but ruled out in study

likely. Instead, he said it will take a tremendous amount of work, time, funding and co-operation before Haliburton will see such a facility.

A fine arts campus could play a significant role here, but it's not going to be the quick fix that many had hoped for, said Muller.

"Can (an arts campus) be developed quickly?" Muller asked. "No," he answered himself. "Can it be developed without co-operation? No." He said the idea has good potential but it will require a strong volunteer effort, commitment from the municipality, fundraising drives and government lobbying. "That's the way to get it," he said.

FINE ARTS CAMPUS

The report's comments, in part, regarding a full college campus in Haliburton are as follows:

Although the scarcity of funding precludes immediate implementation on a grand scale the scheme has merit and is worth pursuing despite the fact that the task will be slow and difficult. Dr Des-Biens, the president of Sir Sandford Fleming College, points out that the Haliburton School succeeds because it has built partnerships within the county, among the board of education, the Arts Guild and the Futures program and because the people who administer the school are energetic and frugal in their budgeting. It is his belief that the future long-term success of the school relies on these ingredients.

In order to move the school ahead, it is imperative that the partnership be expanded to include a broader cross section of the community. Government and business support is essential, as are work, financial and other contributions from individuals. The enthusiasm for the project has to be actively shouldered by the community at large if it is to succeed. Should it succeed, there is little doubt it would make a strong contribution to the economic and cultural fabric of Haliburton County.

'The once pristine image that Haliburton presented is now a little tarnished,' said one of the consultants, referring to the uncontrolled growth that has been allowed in the past. He believes the county needs an official plan.

FORESTRY

While there was full agreement with most of Keir and Muller's observations, several people in attendance argued that the potential for forestry is increasing rather than declining.

Brian Cross, Forest Management Supervisor with the Ministry of Natural Resources in Minden, said he was "shocked and disappointed with the presentation regarding forestry."

Cross told the consultants, "I think there is a lot of potential that wasn't addressed." He was referring to comments made earlier by consultant Eric Keir, who said climatic and soil conditions in the county are such that the productivity of the forests is not as good as in other parts of the province.

Unlike most other parts of the province, much of Haliburton's private lands are still in very large blocks, said Cross. This makes forestry more viable than if the land was split up into small lots.

The fact that the GW Martin mill in Harcourt is closing doesn't mean the potential for forestry is on the decline, he said. Instead, he said the potential is on the rise as the less desirable trees are culled out and sold for firewood. "It takes time to produce high-quality lumber, but the potential is there."

Keir and Muller both agreed with Cross' contention that the county's forests do have potential. However, Keir suggested there may be better uses for the land which would conflict with the goals of forestry. Admitting that tourism and recreation "are probably my bias", Keir wondered if timber production is the most valuable use of the land.

Others in the audience countered this comment, saying that forestry and recreation interests do not conflict. However, Muller cited several examples of "squabbling" between recreationalists, environmentalists and the forestry industry.

"The conflicts are real," Muller said, adding that the county is going to have to make some "hard-nosed decisions" about land use. He said this will probably be one of the most trying challenges that Haliburton County Council will have to face in the near future. "Environmental consciousness is growing in leaps and bounds and the conflict is very real."

A LITTLE TARNISHED

Tourism and recreation are the driving force behind the county's economy and will continue to be unless the natural attractions are allowed to deteriorate. Muller warned that the "once pristine image that Haliburton presented is now a little tarnished" by uncontrolled development.

Only three municipalities in the county have an official plan in place that dictates what type of development should go where. Muller suggested that an official plan for the county is necessary to ensure that future development is done in an orderly manner.

Going hand-in-hand with development is the stress on Haliburton's lakes and waterways. "Few aspects of the environment are going to be as important to the future of Haliburton County as its water resources," the report reads. "... it is interesting to note that outdoor recreation associated with water bodies is considered to be the only extensive critical resource in the county," it says in the report.

"Unfortunately, the intensive use of the aquatic resource for recreation by cottaging on lake shores and fishing may also lead to a gradual reduction in the quality of that resource." The report says the county is going to be faced with a complex balancing act to ensure that water resource remains a high-quality one, capable of attracting visitors and new residents.

"This will undoubtedly mean an integrated county-wide effort to direct and regulate growth on the lake shores after a careful study of the carrying capacities of each lake."

The water system here is under pressure from many sides and the key problems are: acid rain; increased run-off contamination from new cottages; imbalances in the use of the fishery; the need to reduce fishing on some over-stressed lakes; damage to shoreline from development and recreational activities; and conflicting needs for water level regulation between competing uses (the Trent-Severn Waterway.)

This meeting was the first public hearing since the study was initiated. Muller said this first phase was a "gleaning of issues that came out of our own work, observations of other people and of other consultants. In the next two months the consultants will be evaluating alternative economic development strategies and preparing an Implementation Plan for Economic Development Strategy."

When those steps are completed the ball is back in Haliburton County's court. Muller said the county has three options: do nothing, hope for a quick fix solution such as a large industry, or look to long-term planned development.

Weed growth is a problem, says resident

Editor:

I was unable to attend the public meeting on Aug. 15 concerning the Haliburton sewage treatment plant expansion, but have talked with four people who did attend and was shocked to hear that the consultant from Totten Sims Hubicki Associates stated that weeds are not a problem in Lake Kashagawigamog. I have lived on this lake for 18 years and I have witnessed a dramatic increase in weed and algae growth. For the past 5 years I have participated in the MOE Self Help Program which monitors water clarity and chlorophyll "a". It may be a coincidence but both of these "yardsticks" indicated a definite decline in water quality since 1975 when the sewage plant was installed in Haliburton. Prior to 1975 secchi disc readings were consistently between 4 and 5 m. and chlorophyll "a" was below 2 ug/L. By 1981 the secchi disc had dropped to the 3 to 4 m range and chlorophyll "a" had risen to over 3 ug. These measurements confirm what was obvious to those of using the lake namely that you couldn't see as far down into the water as you could previously and there was a higher concentration of nutrients in the water to stimulate weeds and algae. By 1984 I became so concerned with the slimy rocks, "gucky" sediment, and the brown film on everything (even the weeds weren't green anymore) that I contacted the MOE and became involved with the testing process. The Self Help report that year declared that "Data collected prior to 1979 indicated that water quality conditions indicate that Kashagawigamog Lake was an unenriched lake but that from 1979 to the present water quality conditions indicate that the lake has changed to moderately enriched." To further alarm me, I noticed on a graph in the same report that our lake was rated in 1984 as being at the identical level of "enrichment" (i.e. pollution) as Sturgeon Lake in 1982. Obviously too much phosphorous was getting into Lake Kashagawigamog. It was only a matter of time before the nutrient-enriched water spawned enough algae and weeds to seriously deplete the oxygen during their annual decomposition cycle. As a matter of fact, 1985 data indicates that there is no optimum laketrout habitat left in the north basin of Lake Kashagawigamog (i.e. temperatures at or below 10 degrees celsius and oxygen 6 parts per million minimum.) For this reason MOE has recently declared the north basin a Policy Two waterbody which means no additional phosphorous loading will be allowed and, therefore, severances and expansions are restricted. This is good news to those of us who are concerned about the lake's long-term health. However, it would appear that Dysart is intent on pressing ahead with the sewage treatment expansion in spite of the testimony of those who swim in the lake and the Ministry of Environment's conclusions. Although I realize that sewage effluent is not the only cause of phosphorous loading, doubling the quantity of effluent is certainly not going to help reverse the dangerously high rate of decline in water quality. Even a "marginal increase" in Grass Lake as the report concludes is frankly too risky when the long-term impact of this effluent (especially at low water levels in the shallows near the discharge pipe) is considered. And this doesn't even take into account the inevitable expansion of the resorts etc., which I understand could quadruple the quantity of effluent within a few years. I would submit that the cheapest alternative would be the least desirable one in the long term. Any of the other four choices Totten Sims Hubicki has outlined would be preferable to Alternative One which boils down to

"more of the same" when it has not been satisfactorily demonstrated that the undeniable decline in water quality in Grass, Kashagawigamog and Canning Lakes will be slowed down by this decision.

I know I speak for countless numbers of Canadians when I say "bravo" to the fair-minded people of Minden and its honourable press, as well as to all others who joined in the strong denunciation of a man whose warped mind and ideas run counter to everything our country stand for. You have all set an admirable example for Canadians to emulate.

tape and figure out what went wrong.

Over the past few years investigators have had the unenviable chore of listening to more than a few of those tapes. One thing they've learned is that there's a whole new language evolving up there in the cockpit.

Pilots speak to each other of "doing a slam dunk". That's when a plane is kept above congested air traffic then banked sharply at high speed and "slam dunked" through the holding pattern down to the runway.

The conversation behind that door is also often racist and sexist. Female pilots are "empty kitchens". Small private aircraft which get in the way are "Indians".

I love their name for the standard in-flight dinner choice pilots are usually offered (filet mignon or chicken cordon bleu) — the pilots call it "leather or feather".

I'm not so crazy, on the other hand, about the name pilots have for live freight like you and me. They call us dogs — as in "How many dogs have we got in back today?"

Sometimes the conversation sounds like a sound check from an all-night radio talk show. On a Delta Air Lines 727 flight out of Dallas last summer you could hear the pilot and co-pilot swapping such pre-flight chitchat as:

An assessment of Jesse Jackson's political performance. "It's scary that someone could get as far as he did."

Speculation about the genealogical roots of the U.S. Vice President's spouse: "She looks like she's from Texas. She's got that horseface."

The Delta pilots also joked about the dating habits of the flight attendants "in case we crash, so the media would have some kind of juicy tidbit...they're such vultures."

How come we have all these juicy tidbits about one particular flight? Oh, because some media vulture from a Dallas TV station asked the courts for a copy of the tape. Reason for interest? Because moments after the above conversation was recorded the Delta 727 crashed on takeoff from Dallas, killing 14 people, including the pilot and co-pilot.

Solution to landfill woes is in our own back yards

A big part of the solution to the landfill problems throughout the province can be right in your own back yard, and with the help of a simple device created by a Haliburton County cottager all of the pitfalls involved in composting have been eliminated.

John Warrington, who is a seasonal resident on Kushog Lake, has developed a unique compost bin that eliminates foul odors, keeps animals out and enhances the rate of deterioration of the food waste by collecting heat from the sun.

One of these composters was recently installed at Ann Barker's home on Kushog Lake. The Stanhope Township Deputy Reeve is so impressed with the product that she will be urging County Council to make these available to county residents at a reduced cost. She hopes this might be done through the same program that is allowing the county to distribute the blue boxes for recycling.

"It's so simple," Barker says of the small cone-shaped fibreglass composter. "You dig a 15 inches deep and set it in the hole. There's even a basket in the ground that keeps the animals out."

Barker is one of the very first people to have one of Warrington's composters installed. She says Warrington has distributed some home-made versions to his friends, but this is one of the first to be sold to the public.

Considering that food wastes account for about 30 per cent of what goes into the dumps, composting this material makes perfect sense. However, the bother of maintaining a compost heap—building a bin, trying to keep animals out and putting up with the smell—has prevented most from taking that step.

Warrington's composter, called the Econolyzer Kitchen Waste Digester/Composter, eliminates all that. The simplicity of the device makes it attractive for people to start composting their potato peelings, egg shells and other scraps.

Warrington's composter, which is being distributed by ECO Corporation of Mississauga, has a price tag of about $50.

Barker is confident, though, that if Haliburton County Council can get government funding similar to that received for the blue boxes, they will be springing up in backyards all over the Highlands.

The ministry covered two thirds of the cost for the blue boxes as part of a province-wide program to encourage recycling.

Widespread acceptance of backyard composting could also translate into considerable savings for the municipalities. The ministry estimates that the average cost to dispose garbage is $50 per ton. In Haliburton County it has been estimated that 220 tons of garbage is dumped daily at the landfill sites, 30 per cent of which could be composted. If only half the residents of Haliburton composted their food waste instead of taking it to the dump, the municipalities combined would save more than $500 per day.

Backyard composting should be a priority program of waste management, ECO Corporation says in its literature regarding the composter. The following benefits would result from a program of backyard composting:

—It is one of the few methods that eliminates large volumes of waste at the source.

—It is one of the few waste management systems that has virtually no operating costs.

—It can deal with a substantial portion of the waste stream which is easily identifiable and separated.

—It will act as an excellent educational tool to make the public more aware of what they are disposing.

—It is one of the only programs of waste management that can pay for itself in a very short time.

—By removing and diverting food waste, the serious problems of leachate, methane gas, foul odors and rodents will be reduced at landfill sites.

Considering the amount of food waste that goes into the dumps every day, it would seem that Warrington's small Stanhope resident Ann Barker was one of the first people to have one of the revolutionary composters installed in her back yard. She would like to see more of these units in use and will encourage county council to seek funding similar to that used to distribute the blue recycling boxes.

Bob Lake residents angered by decision

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Minden council's decision to discontinue maintenance of the lower portion of the Bob Lake Road has angered the residents in that area.

At their August 10, meeting, council voted unanimously to stop maintaining the last half kilometre of road and to establish a turn around at the top of the hill north of Bob Lake.

The move was made at the request of Road Superintendent Clayton Cameron, who said the road was too narrow to allow the township's equipment to travel it safely.

Cameron told council that because the township does not own the road, the road crews were trespassing every time they travelled it and were maintaining it illegally.

But Art Turner, who owns property on the lower portion of the road, disputed Cameron's claim. Turner said the road was deeded to the municipality in 1961 by then-owner William Smith for the sum of one dollar. He said the deed gave the municipality ownership of the existing road to a width of 33 feet from the centre line.

Turner said the road has been in existence for 50 years and maintained by the township for the past 30 years. "I've walked or driven that road since before most of you were born," he told council.

Council said the deed does not accurately describe the road and is therefore questionable, but Turner said the phrase, "existing roadway" is all the description which is necessary.

Cameron said the reason that maintaining the road is dangerous is because it narrows to about 20 feet as it approaches the lake. He said there isn't enough room to manoeuvre, especially if cars are parked along the side of the road.

At last Thursday's meeting, council was confronted by a group of Bob Lake residents requesting that the earlier decision be reversed, and the township continue to maintain the entire length of road.

Property owner Oliver Crockford presented council with a letter from his lawyer, Albert Smith.

In his letter, Smith says that, according to Section 257 of the Municipal Act, once the municipality has expended public money for the opening of the road, "on which statute labour has been usually performed," it becomes a public highway and can only be closed in accordance with the law.

"My clients told me that they are one of 40 cottagers who will be seriously affected if the road service is discontinued" and are "very disturbed that the Road Superintendent can arbitrarily close a road upon his own authority," Smith says in his letter.

Crockford called closing up.

Jim Boice, Laxton, Digby and Longford's fire chief, said his department received the alarm at about 1:45 p.m. and by the time the first firefighters arrived the house, store and storage sheds were already engulfed in flames.

Men and equipment from Bexley, Fenelon

Falls and Eldon townships assisted in fighting the fire.

Cause of the fire is under investigation although the family suspects it may have been started by an electrical fault. Damage is estimated at over $500,000.

Firefighters battled the blaze for 10 hours on Wednesday, according to Boice, and then returned on Thursday for another three hours to deal with "hot spots" which were still smoldering.

Laxton Reeve Ingram Wessell has lent the family a trailer to live in and Calder said he plans to rebuild his home and business. "It's the only thing to do."

There were no injuries as a result of the fire.

the road a "regressive" move and said because the township has maintained the road for 30 years, it's irrelevant whether or not the municipality holds a deed because according to the Municipal Act it automatically becomes a public highway.

Deputy-Reeve Bern Berry

said the section of the Municipal Act is open to interpretation, and that the real problem is that the township vehicles can't safely service the area. He also said that although the township won't maintain the road, it isn't being closed.

Councillor Lewis Stevens said Cameron is the last person who wants a problem, but he has a responsibility to ensure the safety of the road crews who have to plow the Bob Lake Road.

He suggested that it would be to the residents' to advantage to have the road maintained by a private contractor.

"You people were elected to look after the public highways," said Crockford.

Earl Hewitt addressed council and said he plowed the road for 17 years and the road is wider now than it was then. "It's easier to work with people than to fight with them," he said.

Berry said cars parked along the side of the road in the winter create a "perilous situation" for the municipal snowplow operators.

Hewitt brought up the issue of mail delivery, and said the mail boxes were located along the stretch of road which will no longer be plowed.

In an attempt to resolve the dispute, Roy Palmer offered to enter into an agreement with the township. Palmer owns the property along the narrow stretch of road which is causing the problems. Palmer said he and his neighbour, John Fortune, would agree to remove their vehicles from the side of the road if the township would continue maintenance. Palmer said the cars would be moved if the township provided one hour's notice before the snowplow was due down the road.

Berry said council would present the agreement to the township's lawyer.

Environment committee is pushed

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

An environmental advisory committee in Anson, Hindon and Minden would provide a forum for rate-payers to make their concerns known to the township, according to the Canarvon resident lobbying for the formation of such a committee.

Gordon Smith made his second visit to council last Thursday to present the councillors with a written summary of his proposal and a statement of the committee's purpose.

"The committee will research and investigate pertinent solutions and make recommendations in the form of resolutions for council," said Smith.

In the statement of purpose, Smith provided council with four areas of responsibility he would like to see the committee involved in.

The first is the establishment of a water quality study pertaining to Minden's waterways to assist municipal council in the formulation of regulations and policies to control the relationship between lake-shore development and water quality.

Smith suggested that the Ontario Lakeshore Capacity Simulation Model can be used to discover the development capacity of lakes. He said Cardiff has used this model and, "such a survey would have far-reaching significance in terms of subsequent development on Anson, Hindon and Minden waterfront."

The second area Smith suggested the committee could assist in is the identification of environmentally-sensitive areas, such as wetlands and natural habitats, to effectively protect and conserve these areas. This move would also help promote Minden Township as compost units would fill up so fast that they would have to be emptied every month. However, this isn't the case, since the composter digests the material faster than most families can fill it.

The double wall of the composter is designed to collect the sun's rays, trapping heat inside the unit and accelerating the decomposition. To further enhance the decomposition, a mixture of "Quick Digester" can be poured into the unit every two weeks.

Normal food waste is 95 per cent water, which is released into the soil below the composter.

Environment committee is advised

"truly conservation-minded," Smith said.

The committee would also encourage community involvement in the decision-making process affecting the use of resources and would provide an ongoing forum and the opportunity for dialogue.

The fourth task Smith suggested for the committee was the formulation and implementation of a viable waste management plan which addresses short-term and long-term environmental impact. Smith said a long-term, rather than interim recycling plan needs to be developed, taking into consideration household hazardous waste and the need for continuous public education.

"The work of this committee should serve as a welcome time-saving device for council and help expedite the political process," said Smith.

Smith said public advisory committees are being used across Canada as a means of dealing with the adverse effects of environmental pollution.

"Appropriate steps must be taken to exhibit some foresight in planning, community projects and policy establishment, especially in this county where tourism, recreation and the regular seasonal influx of holiday naturalists, sports buffs and bird peepers comprise the largest portion of our current economic base and depend upon the preservation of our natural resources for their future enjoyment," Smith said.

When Smith first presented his proposal for an environmental advisory committee to council on August 10, he was told that the councillor's present workload would prevent them from spending any more time working on a new committee. They suggested he could continue to research the possibility of forming an independent committee consisting of volunteers from the community.

The environmental committee could alleviate some of the work already being done at the council level, said Smith.

"I'm not jumping up and down with the idea of being on another committee," he said. "But I think this would be a valuable asset."

Deputy-Reeve Bern Berry told Smith that County Council is in the midst of working on a waste management study and Minden Township is having a study done to determine the life-span of the Scotch Line land-fill site which would possibly overlap with the recommendation that the environment committee be involved in a waste management plan.

Councillor Lewis Stevens

said cottage associations and other local groups are already involved in many of the areas covered in Smith's proposal and asked if the new committee would serve as an "umbrella group or watch-dog" for other efforts in the municipality.

Smith said it is worth redefining the municipality's environmental objectives to make implementation more expedient. He said regular committee meetings would provide a forum and encourage public input.

Council agreed to bring the idea up for further discussion at a later date, once they've had the opportunity to study Smith's proposal. "I think the idea's a good one," said Berry.

According to Smith, the committee would consist of six regular members and two additional people serving in an advisory capacity. He said he's already been in contact with people who are interested in serving.

Condo project meets with more delays

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Ray Moore's downtown condominium project is still on hold while Minden council waits for a sewer and water capacity study from the Ministry of the Environment.

The development, which requires Official Plan and zoning by-law amendments, was scheduled for consideration at last Thursday's council meeting, but because a number of concerns about the proposal have not been addressed, council again postponed its decision.

A public meeting was held July 25, when council first postponed its decision on the rezoning application. Dozens of area residents attended that meeting, expressing their concerns, the top of which was the parking on Newcastle Street.

At the July meeting council assured the residents their concerns would be addressed in the preparation of a site plan. Councillor Lewis Stevens said the rezoning is just the first step of the process and there will be more time to deal with the issues once this has gone through. However, council put its decision over until last Thursday, pending receipt of the ministry report on the excess capacity of the sewage treatment plant.

As of last Thursday, the township still had not received the Ministry's report, although they were notified that the matter was in the hands of the district office in Peterborough.

The township is also asking Moore to provide a second access to the development on the recommendation of planner Bob Lehman. Deputy-Reeve Bern Berry said a proposal for the additional access has yet to be provided by Torybrook Investments, Moore's development company.

No representative from the development was on hand to respond to any of the concerns. Reeve Moore was present during a portion of the meeting, but left when his development was being discussed to avoid a conflict of interest.

A number of local residents attended last Thursday's meeting to express concerns about the development.

Viola Walsh asked council if the fire department had been contacted to comment on the accessibility of the condominiums in the event of emergency. She also voiced concerns about the availability of parking for the development and the setbacks between the buildings and the neighbouring properties.

Berry said the parking and setback considerations will be addressed in a site plan agreement between the township and the developer.

Wayne Wilson lives adjacent to the proposed development site and told council he was worried about the effect the condominiums would have on Newcastle Street. He asked if neighbouring property owners would have a chance to comment on any changes made to the street.

"I'm not trying to pre-judge the development, but I'd like to know what it means if it goes ahead," said Wilson. He said he's not sure if he objects to the project because he doesn't know what will happen to Newcastle Street as a result.

Berry suggested that council refer the matter to the September 28, meeting by which time he hoped the township would have the Ministry's study on Minden's water and sewer capacity. He said the fire chief would be asked for his comments on the project in the meantime, and Torybrook would be asked to send a representative to the meeting to answer any questions about the development.

Campbell chosen to sit on hospital board

Minden resident Doug Campbell has been chosen to be Minden's new representative on St. Joseph's Hospital board of directors.

Campbell is replacing Bill Kulas who resigned from the position in June citing time constraints as his reason for leaving.

"I feel the hospital is an important part of the community and always has been," Campbell said in an interview on Friday. "I will certainly work to see the hospital stays as an entity in Minden."

Campbell says Minden's hospital is vital for two reasons. First, the increase in the senior citizen population in the area and second, the proximity of the hospital to the heavy traffic flow on Highway 35. "It's important that Minden has an active and up-to-date hospital to deal with emergencies."

He says he intends to cooperate with the local ad hoc citizen's committee which is trying to ensure the continued viability of the Minden Hospital.

Cardiff's reeve is accused of wrong-doing

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Cardiff's reeve is headed for a legal battle to keep his position as head of the township.

Reeve Maurice Bradley is facing allegations that he is ineligible to hold office in Cardiff because he does not legally own or rent property in the municipality.

Bradley leases a 90-acre farm in Cardiff, but the validity of the lease is being contested by Bill Davis, the man Bradley beat in last November's municipal election.

In an interview with The Times on Saturday, Davis said Bradley only leased the property last summer in order to be eligible to run in the municipal election. "In my opinion he's evading the law," said Davis.

Davis says Bradley only pays $100 a year for the farm, and that low amount makes him suspicious of the reasons for the lease. "Who do you know that would lease you 90 acres for only $100, even if it was only bush?" asks Davis.

Bradley did own property in Cardiff, but sold it in April 1988, says Davis, leaving the Reeve with only 90 days to buy or rent another piece of property in Cardiff in order to be eligible to run in the election.

On the last day possible, Davis says Cardiff's clerk, Nancy Wright-Laking, presented council with Bradley's lease on the farm as proof of his eligibility to run in the election.

"At no time did the clerk ever advise council of Mr. Bradley's position," says Davis.

According to Davis, the term of the lease is three years, exactly the length of one term in municipal office.

But Davis doesn't think this is a coincidence. "It fits in with the rest of the picture," he says.

The basis of Davis' claim that Bradley is ineligible to hold office comes from the Ontario elections act which says candidates must rent or own property in the township they are running in. If a candidate is renting or leasing, the rental payments must be fair and equitable.

"No court of law would find $100 a year for 90 acres fair and equitable," says Davis.

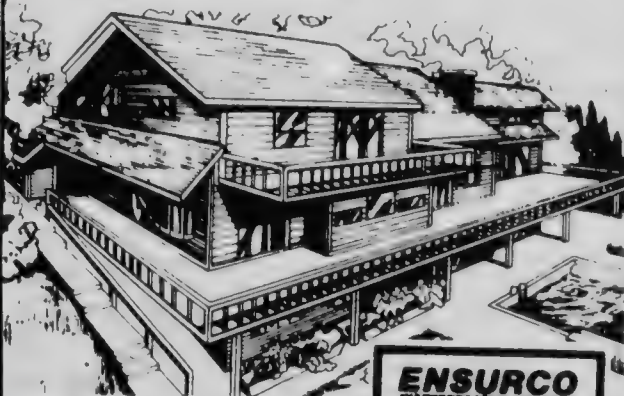

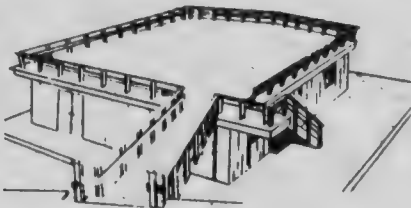

But he is also suspicious of what he calls "discrepancies" in Bradley's account of the leasing.

In the fall of 1988, just prior to the deadline for candidates to announce their intention to run in the municipal election, Davis says he asked Bradley if he

'Bravo Canada' exhibit in Kinmount

William Scott, M.P. for Victoria-Haliburton, announced, on behalf of Secretary of State, Gerry Weiner, that the "Bravo Canada!" exhibit will be on display at the Kinmount Fair, on the Kinmount Fair grounds, from September 1 to 3, 1989.

The multi-media exhibit is a tribute to the natural beauty of Canada as well as to the ingenuity and excellence of the men and women who live here. The exhibit instills a feeling of national pride and a sense of identity in being Canadian. It makes us aware of our achievements as a nation and encourages visitors to learn more about our country.

Divided into three sections, each of which focusses on a particular characteristic of the Canadian reality, the Bravo Canada! exhibit is a tribute to the breathtaking beauty of our country, as well as to the ingenuity and excellence of the men and women who inhabit it.

One by one, we discover Canada — The Land through its bounty (the physical reality), Canada — The Innovations (Canadian know-how) and Canada — The People (Canadian men and women whose actions are an inspiration to others).

Canada — The Land enables the visitor to rejoice in the magnificent variety of our land's natural beauty and to become aware of its fragility. The richness of our natural resources is demonstrated as well as the efforts which have been undertaken to preserve the environment.

Canada — The Innovations stresses the inventiveness of Canadians of all ages who have captured the spotlight here and abroad.

Bradley denies Davis' allegations

was going to run in Cardiff. At that time Bradley informed Davis that he had sold his property in Cardiff in April, and would have to consider how he could become eligible.

Davis suggested to Bradley that he could rent property in Cardiff in order to run in the election, but Bradley said he would consider that "morally wrong." Davis doesn't understand why Bradley would call renting morally wrong when, it turned out later, he had already been leasing the farm in Cardiff since July.

Davis has also discovered some irregularities in the lease itself. He says the farm that Bradley leases is up for sale by the owner, Elmer Hughey of Highland Grove.

A neighbour of Davis' inquired about buying the farm earlier this summer and was told that there is no leases or mortgages attached to the property. Davis says his neighbour received a signed, witnessed document saying the property was free and clear to be sold.

Presently no one lives on the farm. Bradley's residence is in Tory Hill, which is in Monmouth Township.

Davis says to his knowledge, Bradley doesn't use the farm for anything, adding to his suspicions that the deal was made just so Bradley could run for office in Cardiff.

But Hughey, the owner of the farm, says there is "nothing" to Davis' accusations. He says Bradley rented the farm from him in July 1988 with the intention of using the land for hunting.

The lease, says Hughey, is strictly a private business arrangement between himself and Bradley with no connection to the last November's election.

He admits that the property is up for sale, and says Bradley has discussed the possibility of purchasing the farm with him although, "no deal has been made yet."

Hughey says the controversy is the result of, "somebody trying to stir things up." And says, "it's nobody's business what business Mr. Bradley and myself have between us."

In responding to Davis' accusations, Bradley admits that he leased the land in July 1988 in order to qualify for the November elections, but says the lease is legal and fully entitles him to hold office. He says he first rented the property on July 22, 1988 and the lease expires on November 30, 1991, after the next municipal election.

Bradley also says he used the farm on and off for the last 15 years, not only for hunting but he's also cut hay on the land and removed fire wood.

Admitting that he pays $100 a year for the property,

Bradley says the amount is irrelevant. "You could pay one dollar a year or $100,000 a year, it doesn't matter."

Both the Ministry of Municipal Affairs and Bradley's lawyer have said the lease qualifies him to hold office but he says, "if Mr. Davis thinks he's smarter than them, he's free to contest it."

Bradley has no doubts that Davis' accusations are nothing more than, "sour grapes" owing to the fact that Bradley beat Davis by 41 votes in the election. He also says that Cardiff Council had to remove Davis from his seat on the Crow Valley Conservation Authority because of his "inefficiency" and the recent controversy is Davis' way of "getting back."

He denies ever telling Davis that he considered renting property in order to be eligible for the election, "morally wrong."

Bradley says Davis' accusations are nothing more than "sour grapes" over losing the election.

Living in Monmouth in no way detracts from his ability to serve on Cardiff Council, says Bradley. "I give as unbiased opinions as I can, and spend a tremendous amount of time serving Cardiff township. If Mr. Davis served Cardiff as honestly, the township would be a better place to live in."

Bradley has had the police conduct an investigation into the matter because he believes some of the information used against him might have been gained by "fraudulent methods." But he says, as yet, nothing has been substantiated.

Bradley says he is discussing the possibility of purchasing the farm from Hughey.

Davis says his lawyer is still investigating the matter, and although he hasn't contacted the Ministry of Municipal Affairs yet, he anticipates doing so. He says he fully intends to pursue the matter, even into a court of law if he has to. He says he wants to get, "to the bottom of the matter."

If Bradley is found to be ineligible to serve by the courts, there are several different ways the vacancy in the reeve's chair could be filled.

The judge could order a new election be held or, if it's decided that Bradley was never an eligible candidate, Davis could be installed as reeve as the only other candidate in the race or, Cardiff council may be allowed to appoint someone to the position.

Read your way to a new job at the county's libraries

In the United States, a job lasts slightly more than three years on average. This is an average figure, many jobs last longer than that and this becomes more and more the case as you mature within the work force.

But if this pattern applies to Canada as well - and there is no reason to suggest that it would not - the average person is going to be looking for a new job eight times in their job lifetime.

And as times change, so do techniques and approaches. So if you are considering a job change or perhaps a career re-evaluation, Richard Nelson Bolles' The 1989 What Colour Is Your Parachute? may be just what you are looking for.

Subtitled "A Practical Manual for Job-Hunters and Career Changers", it is going to tell you more than you ever needed to know about the process.

Learn about the skills

you need today to find the job you want. How do you find the person who has the power to hire you? What questions should you ask? What questions will they ask you? How do placement offices work and who pays? Can they help you? What do you have to know about yourself to be able to sell yourself? Lots of guides, aids and techniques to help you understand your greatest potentials and how to best present your case to the right people and be successful are contained in this book.

If anyone wants to find the right job, they should be aware of What Colour

Is Your Parachute? The guy who is looking for the same job that you want probably knows about it. Or does he? Can you afford to take that chance?

As always, it is available through your local branch of the Haliburton County Public Library... and lots of other good items as well!

for your service

by Dave McAdam, Legion Branch 636

The past month has seen our Branch participate in a number of local events. Our yard sale went very well. Branch 636 is better off financially, the donors have cleaner basements and garages and the buyers hopefully have realized a few bargains. We overheard it said at the Yard Sale - "What's one man's junk is another man's treasure".

Although the turn out of members from our Branch for the County Fair Parade was disappointing, we can thank some of our Comrades from Branches 129 and 441 for helping to fill out our ranks. Parts of our problem may have been the draw of members to the Warriors Day Parade at the C.N.E. Also several members were busily engaged at the fair in other duties such as parking and gate operations and hosting our hospitality tent. To the many members who helped the fair with these duties as well as those who marched with us in the parade "well done and thank you".

Another parade is coming up on September 2nd. We are invited to participate in the Kinmount Fair Warriors Day Parade with many Comrades from other Branches. Assembly is at Rokeby Lumber, Kinmount at noon - full uniform please. We step off at 12:30 p.m. to the fair grounds. Afterward there is fellowship at the Legion Hall. Let's all be there with out Colour Party and our new L.A. with their Colours.

We have a draw underway with a view to raising operational funds for our Branch. We will be raffling a Noma 8 h.p. track driven snow blower with electric start. It's a beauty and some lucky person will be a very happy winner next February 7th having purchased a $2.00 ticket or 3 for $5.00. We will be distributing books of tickets at our next General Meeting on September 6th and asking you to sell them. Please take a book of 12 to sell and if you can't be there, please call me and I will see that you receive one.

In the matter of the District "F" Drumhead Service in Bancroft on September 24th, we will post a notice on the bulletin board in the lobby. If sufficient members indicate their intention to attend by signing the sheet, we will look into the possibility of hiring a bus for travel en masse. If there are not enough persons, we could double up and travel by cars.

When this column goes to press, we will have had our August dance. We hope it will be as successful as the July one. Owing to the limited space we have for a dance and the excellent attendance (little advertising needed) we urge you to purchase tickets beforehand at the bar. We could in future be obliged to discontinue ticket sales at the door to avoid exceeding our lounge capacities.

Please note that your 1989 membership expires December 31st but on September 1st our dues for 1990 become payable. They can be paid to our Membership Chairman Frank Dunsford or at the bar. Let's try again for a 100% Early Bird Award for 1990 as it does benefit your Branch at Command level.

It is with sadness that we advise you of the passing of a friend, Comrade Irv Chambers, our Zone Colour Sergeant and a respected member of Branch 129. May we at 636 extend our sincere sympathy to our Comrades at Branch 129. We know that Irv will be missed among you. To Irv's wife and family may we say it has been an honour to have called him Comrade. Please know that you have our heartfelt sympathy at this time.

We are also shocked and further saddened to learn of the untimely passing of one of our own active members, Comrade John Durno. John marched with our Colour Party at the County Fair Parade. He has been very supportive and will be greatly missed by his friends as well as his Comrades at Branch 636.

*Ladies Auxiliary
Branch 636
Minden Ontario*

As summer draws to an end, the Ladies of Branch 636 have been quite busy raising funds for their color flag. Thanks to many generous donations of bake goods and lawn sale articles, the L.A. has been able to buy their colour flags. The winner of the hand made clock graciously donated by Hugh Lester was M. O'Shaughnessy.

We still have spaces left on our money board. Each space will cost you dollar with lots of prizes to be won. This draw will be held later in October.

For those who have missed our Summer Bake Sales, don't despair, our next Bake Sale is going to be held on Saturday, September 2 starting at 10 a.m. All baked good donations will be gratefully accepted.

Ladies Auxiliary general meetings start up once again next month. Our first one will be September 13 at 7:30 p.m. If you have any craft ideas for our Christmas bazaar, bring them along to this meeting. Starting on Tuesday, September 5 at 7:30 p.m., ladies' darts will begin. This first night will just be an informal evening of instruction for those of us who have never tossed one of these feathered pointy things in their life or those who would like to get a head start on practicing. Ladies from the L.A. and Legion are all welcome.

A few dates to keep in mind for the upcoming months ahead are September 2nd - Bake Sale 10 a.m., September 5th - Darts 7:30 p.m., September 13th - L.A. General Meeting 7:30 p.m., and October 21st - L.A. Zone Fun Night.

Arts Guild preparing for annual fall fashion show

It's hard to believe that September is already on the horizon. But here it is. The soft maples are turning red, the nights are cooler, and the corn is ripening.

That means it's nearly time for "September Song". That's the Haliburton Highland Guild of Fine Arts Fashion Show. Jean Farrell is once again chairing the committee. We hope you are planning on attending.

The date is September 17th at 12:30 p.m. The place is the Pinestone Inn. Tickets are $20 each which includes a lovely brunch as well as the excellent showing off of handcrafted clothing from a variety of Guild members. Our own spinners, weavers and knitters will be represented. Also, silk painting and tailoring.

Special guests will be Kent Farndale as emcee and designer Bill Fitches.

Tickets are now on sale at the Rail's End Gallery. You must purchase them at least a week before the event in order that we have a head count. It promises to be an excellent affair once again. Oh, I heard a rumour that the best of the OHS Seminar Fashion Show might reappear by popular demand.

Those creating apparel for the show, please remember to have their things ready for Jean by September 5th.

See you there.

Inventory essential for insurance

by Doreen Hawman

In the event your home was burglarized, destroyed by fire or a disaster, could you remember all the contents when completing an insurance claim? An up to date inventory and photographs of your possessions could be invaluable to you at such a traumatic time.

Your insurance office or the nearest information centre will be happy to supply you with an inventory booklet which will greatly assist you with this task. After completing the inventory and taking the photos, be sure to store them in a safe place such as your safety deposit box. You may never use these records but if the need should arise, it will help ease the burden of compiling an inventory for the adjuster.

To receive a copy of the booklet, or if you require assistance, visit your nearest Information Centre or phone 457-2733 Monday to Friday, 286-4100 Tuesdays.

100 attend Mirror Lake gathering

On Saturday, August 19, almost 100 Horseshoe Lake cottagers and their friends gathered at the Mirror Lake home of Isabel and Don Heaven for a wine and cheese party; the awarding of prizes for the 56 golfers who made their ways around the Blairhampton Golf Course in the morning; and for a spirited auction.

Aside from providing fun for all involved, the events raised funds for the Horseshoe Lake Association's many projects which benefit all the cottagers.

The golf winners were: Low gross - Roy Christie with a par 36; Joanne Christie with a 43 for the ladies; low net - Chelsie Stroud with a 35 and Howie Ryan with a net 30 for the men. Longest drives: Joanne Christie and John Bragg; closest-to-the-hole: Lorraine Christie and Fred Derrick.

Grateful thanks are given to those who donated prizes for the tournament, all of which were very much appreciated.

Kinmount Fair

Stopping short of revolutionizing the world, some of the inventions introduced have considerably simplified the daily life of users. A device to hold a garbage bag open, a portable high chair and a magnetic wallet certainly make life easier.

On the premise that the strength of a country is measured by its citizens, exhibit invites visitors to discover "Canada -- The People". From all walks of life, the Canadians honoured in this section have excelled either in long productive careers, by their determined competitiveness or by performing noteworthy acts of bravery.

Join in the game! The public will be invited to participate in the Bravo Canada! contest. After answering the "scratch and win" questions, you could be eligible for a prize!

Police issue warning of fraudulent contest

The Ontario Provincial Police is warning the public to beware of a misleading advertising circular that promises major prizes, but doesn't deliver them.

The circular, originating from a company in Vancouver, B.C., was sent to a number of local businesses in the North Bay area, and indicates that the recipient is an automatic winner of a car, a trip or a cash award.

The recipient is asked to call the company to confirm receipt of the certificate, and is then asked to send money to cover the cost of shipping. The "prize" is apparently never received.

Water Levels Report

On Monday, August 14, the stored water in Haliburton averaged 61.4 per cent of maximum. It had declined 4.7 per cent from the week before, but was still greater than 1988 or 1987 by about 5.5 per cent. The 10 year average was 6.9 per cent for the same date.

A further flow reduction was made at many reservoir dams this week as well, such that the Gull River flow got down to 14 cubic metres per second, compared to normal August flow of 19.3. At the same time, the Otonabee flow past Peterborough, was running at only 15 cubic metres per second. The August average there is 32.5 cubic metres per second.

Think, act in safety

The Ontario Provincial Police is urging the public to think that act safely on this, the last weekend of summer.

Already this year, the OPP has investigated more than 500 traffic deaths - a seven per cent increase over the same period last year.

"I have instructed our officers to utilize everything at their disposal, including radar and radar detector detectors, as well as RIDE Program initiatives," OPP Commissioner Tom O'Grady said.

Personnel will also be checking for seat belt use. Statistics reveal that in the first eight months of this year, accidents investigated by the OPP, 35 per cent of the victims were thrown from their vehicles.

During Labour Day weekend last year, 19 persons were killed in 11 accidents. This is an increase from the same weekend in 1987 when 11 persons died.

Provincial police are also reminding vacationers that disaster can occur on the water as well as on the roads. In 1988, the OPP investigated 64 boating deaths. So far this year, there have been 28 deaths on Ontario waterways.

"The OPP will be out in full force this Labour Day holiday weekend," said Commissioner O'Grady. "We want everyone to end the summer on a safe note."

Tax ups hydro rates

The federal government's proposed nine per cent goods and services tax will apply to electricity.

If legislation follows the tax categories outline in the recently-released Technical Paper, from 1991 on,

Ontario electricity bills will be nine per cent higher than they would otherwise have been. The nine per cent will be applied on top of any rate increase utilities need to maintain reliable electrical service.

Warm sun shines on corn roast

by Bruce Birrell

Last year's rain clouds were asleep in the valley as this year's sun shone down for a glorious sunset which illuminated Lakeview Lodge flats for the fourteenth annual corn roast on Saturday, August 19.

The Regatta was held earlier in the day and was organized by Ross Partridge. At 1 p.m. (or nearly) seven boats assembled for the two events - the first race for boats with two sails, the second for boats with just one sail.

In the first event, Ross and Karen Partridge sailing a C.L. 16 came in first. Lew McCorrison, with Bob McCorrison and June Fraser, came in second in a C.L. 14. Bob and Janet Lear in a Kolibri II took third place - Janet as mate, auguring well for her upcoming marriage in September. Earl Hayne and Vera Smart received a ribboned prize for their "lasting" effort. Thanks are due to Earl and Vera for their gift of a starter horn.

In the second event, for boats with one sail, Dennis and Jessica Good were first in a Sunfish. Craig Thompson was second. Anread MacLean and friend Ann Doran unluckily dumped after the second buoy but were awarded a prize for a great effort. Home Hardware in Haliburton generously contributed towards the prizes.

Some 150 ratepayers and friends attended the corn and weiner roast, an increase over last year's attendance.

Thanks to Helen Lear and family for organizing the children's games. The children and their parents had a great time, especially with prizes to be won for the races.

Timothy Elstone performed a mammoth task cutting the long grass and preparing the site for the Association. Thank you, Timothy.

Special thanks to Linda Campbell for masterminding the activities and procuring the peaches-and-cream corn. (Nearly didn't get any, despite advance ordering, because of the long dry spell - but heroic efforts saved the day.) Also to those who slaved over the hot fire and barbecue to prepare the delicious corn and wieners - David Geary, Gordon Ogg, Bob Thompson, Lorne Campbell and helpers.

As dusk fell, chairs were pulled closer to the fire for a sing-song led by Bob Thompson and Sue Robertson. Mingled with the old favourites were several "rounds" which generated some friendly rivalry and lusty singing. Having sung themselves hoarse, the company lingered briefly around the glowing campfire in the company of old friends, perhaps not seen for a long time.

A big thank you to President Lew McCorrison and members of the executive for a memorable evening of good fellowship, good fun and good food amidst our beautiful Haliburton countryside.

CARD OF THANKS

"With a Lot of Help From My Friend!"

Thanks!! To all my friends who have made my stay in "Sunnybrook" a breeze for the last few weeks. This is one of the world's finest hospitals but I sure would like to be home.

A special thanks to Bob, Dale & Greg (some of my more warped friends) for their "very unique gift". Only Bob's imaginative and creative (bent) mind could conjure the "Gift of Happiness", that would literally shake the hallowed halls of Sunnybrook.

Even my roommate, a staid professor at the U of T smiled & enjoyed "My Gift", especially because it didn't cost him.

Another "first" for Minden was created that day and the doctors and nurses are still talking about it.

I won't report to The Times exactly what "My Gift" was, as I couldn't afford what it would cost to relate all the "bare" facts of that infamous Monday.

Thanks Again

Cub

P.S. See you soon and I'll expound on "My Gift."
